11. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present data on the total government debt outstanding for the budget year?

   a. Yes, the data reflect the outstanding debt both at the start of the budget year and at the end of the budget year (and thereby reflect the net borrowing requirement of the budget).

Comment:
Data on total outstanding debt for the budget year is not presented.

Researcher's Response to this Question was “d.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “a” as the data on total government debt outstanding for the previous years has been presented in Economic Survey 2007 (table 2.11). Summary of the borrowing requirement for the budget year is presented in Annex 1 of Budget Speech of the Fiscal year 2007-8. This information is also available at http://www.mof.gov.np/publication/speech/2007/index.php.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:

Researcher Response: I chose my answer because the economic survey 2007 contains data for 8 months of BY-1 only, which is not an annual data. Thus this does not present debt outstanding for the budget year.

BP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “d” consistent with researcher’s observations.
12. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present interest payments on the debt for the budget year?
   a. Yes, interest payments on the debt are presented.
   b. No, interest payments on the debt are not presented.

   a. Yes, extensive information related to the composition of government debt is presented.
   b. Yes, key additional information is presented, but some details are excluded.
   c. Yes, some additional information is presented, but it lacks important details.

Peere Reviewer Two Comment:
14. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present the macroeconomic forecast upon which the budget projections are based?

   a. Yes, an extensive discussion of the macroeconomic forecast is presented, and key assumptions (such as inflation, real GDP growth, unemployment rate, and interest rates) are stated explicitly.
   b. Yes, the macroeconomic forecast is discussed and most of the key assumptions are stated explicitly, but some details are excluded.
   c. Yes, there is some discussion of the macroeconomic forecast (and/or the presentation of key assumptions), but it lacks important details.
   d. No, information related to the macroeconomic forecast is not presented.
   e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation:

Comment:
The macroeconomic forecast upon which the budget projections are based is not presented. The budget speech, however, presents estimates of macroeconomic variables for the budget year which are the budgetary targets that the government estimates to meet after the execution of the budgeted programs. For example, page 40, point 204 reads, "At the end of the fiscal year 2007-08, that is from the implementation of the proposed budget, GDP growth is estimated to be at 5 percent and inflation will be around 5 percent."

Researcher's Response to this Question was “d.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “a” as the data on total government debt outstanding for the previous years have been presented in Economic Survey 2007 (table 2.11). Summary of the borrowing requirement for the budget year is presented in Annex 1 of Budget Speech of the Fiscal year 2007-8. Peer Reviewer Two Comment:

Researcher Response: I maintain my answer because peer reviewers’ comment is not relevant in answering this question.

BP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “d” consistent with researcher’s observation.
15. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation show the impact of different macroeconomic assumptions (i.e., sensitivity analysis) on the budget (including expenditures, revenues, and debt)?

   a. Yes, extensive information on the impact of macroeconomic assumptions on the budget is presented, including both a narrative discussion and quantitative estimates.
   b. Yes, information is presented, highlighting the impact of the major macroeconomic assumptions, but some details are excluded.
   c. Yes, some information is presented, but it lacks important details.
   d. No, information on the impact of different macroeconomic assumptions on the budget is not presented.
   e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

   Comment:
   Information on the impact of different macroeconomic assumptions on the budget is not presented.

   Researcher's Response to this Question was “d.”

   Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be "c" as the "Annual Program for the Fiscal Year 2005/6" published by National Planning Commission contains some discussion of macroeconomic forecast.

   Peer Reviewer Two Comment:

   Researcher Response: I chose my answer because the document that peer reviewer is referring is the detail of expenditure, which is the breakdown of the budgeted expenditure. This is not based on macroeconomic assumptions.

   BP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “d” consistent with the researcher’s response.
16. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present information for at least the budget year that shows how policy proposals in the budget, as distinct from existing policies, affect expenditures?

   a. Yes, extensive information on the impact of policy proposals on expenditures is presented, including both a narrative discussion and quantitative estimates.
   b. Yes, information is presented, highlighting the impact of key policy proposals on expenditures, but some details are excluded.
   c. Yes, some information is presented, but it lacks important details.

Researcher's Response to this Question was “d.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “c” as the "Annual Program for the Fiscal Year 2007/8" published by National Planning Commission presents expenditure for the year preceding the budget year that are put under functional classification.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:

Researcher Response: I chose my answer because peer reviewer is referring to functional classification, while the question asks for economic classification

BP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “d” consistent with researcher’s observations.

Comment:
The economic survey is presented to the parliament along with the budget proposal. While budget proposal contains estimates of revenue and expenditure for BY and beyond, the economic survey contains information on the performance of the economy during BY-1 and prior years. In other words, the economic survey for BY-1 year, which is 2006-2007 but published in 2007, is always the most recent budget document for the budget year.

This Fiscal Year's budget speech contains pro-poor budget and gender budget. These two break-down helps link the budget expenditure with the policy goals of poverty reduction and gender equality. The budget, however, does not provide narrative description. This information can be available at Annex 8B and 8C of the Budget Speech. http://www.mof.gov.np/publication/speech/2007/index.php

Comment:
The budget speech for 2007-08 (Table 8 and Table 8A) and Red Book also break down all expenditures by priorities (P1, P2 and P3) and four pillars of Poverty Reduction Strategy Papaer (broad based economic growth, social development, targeted programs for remote and marginalized communities and good governance). This indirectly links expenditure with policy goals.

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: To add to the comment, the 2007 Interim Constitution for the first time guarantees certain economic rights including free health services and employment (Part 3 Fundamental Rights points 16 and 18 see www.worldstatesmen.org/Nepal_Interim_Constitution2007). Thus when the Budget Speech refers to “essential health services…will be provided free of cost” (point 80) and “one family one job” program in Karnali “will…be continued” (point 82) these too link the budget up with national policy goals.

Researcher’s Response to this Question was “d.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: However, the National Planning Commission’s Three Year Interim Plan (2008-10) presents a three year sectoral budget allocation over the three year period, see for example its Table 6 on Development Expenditure Allocation 2008-2010 (www.npc.gov.np)

Researcher Response: I chose my answer because my response is based on the budget proposal, which is distinct from the plan document. Even the three year interim plan does not provide information on the link between the budget and government’s stated policy goals.

BP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “d” consistent with the researcher’s observations.
50. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present non-financial data, such as the number of beneficiaries, for expenditure programs?

   a. Non-financial data are presented for all programs.
   b. Non-financial data are presented for programs representing at least two-thirds of, but not all, expenditures.
   c. Non-financial data are presented for programs representing less than two-thirds of expenditure.
   d. No non-financial data are presented.
   e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment:
In most cases, the government does not provide links between expenditure program and non-financial data associated with it. But there are a few instances where such links are shown. For example, Point No. 79 in Page 18 of the Budget Speech gives some information on how many people would benefit from the expenditures through targeted programs for poverty reduction being run this year.

Researcher’s Response to this Question was “c.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be "b" as the Annual Program for the Fiscal Year 2007/8 published by National Planning Commission contains some information about non-financial data.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: The 2007/08 Budget for the first time also incorporates 5 gender indicators in its computerized system so that 11.3% of its spending has ended up being defined as “directly gender responsive,” 33.16% as “indirectly gender responsive” and 55.54% as “gender neutral.”

Researcher Response: I chose my answer because in most cases, the government does not provide links between expenditure program and non-financial data associated with it. But there are a few instances where such links are shown. While peer reviewer one agrees this (but surprisingly chooses response that says more than two-third of the expenditure is linked with non-financial data), peer reviewer two is referring something that has nothing to do with this response.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “c” consistent with the researcher’s response.
51. Are the non-financial data presented useful for assessing how an expenditure program is performing?

   a. The non-financial data are very useful for assessing program performance.
   b. The non-financial data are mostly useful for assessing program performance.
   c. The non-financial data are somewhat useful for assessing program performance.
   d. No non-financial data are provided or they are not useful for assessing program performance.

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “b” as the Annual Program for the Fiscal Year 2007/8 published by National Planning Commission contains some information about non financial data which are useful for assessing program performance, for example, targets for kilometers of black topping, number of new sub health posts and so on.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “d” consistent with the researcher’s response.
53. Are the performance indicators sufficiently well designed, such that one can assess whether there has been progress toward meeting policy goals?

   a. All performance indicators are well designed.
   b. Most performance indicators are well designed.
   c. Some performance indicators are well designed, but most are not.
   d. No programs have performance indicators, or they are not well designed.

55. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present information on policies (both proposals and existing commitments) in at least the budget year that are intended to benefit directly the country’s most impoverished populations?

a. Yes, extensive information on policies intended to alleviate poverty is presented, including both a narrative discussion and quantitative estimates.
b. Yes, information is presented, highlighting the impact of key policies intended to alleviate poverty, but some details are excluded.
c. Yes, some information is presented, but it lacks important details.
d. No, information on policies intended to alleviate poverty is not presented.

Comment:
Some information on such policies is presented. But it lacks important details. For example, Point No. 79 in Page 18 of the Budget Speech says, "Intensive programs on poverty alleviation will be carried out in 40 districts including districts of Karnali zone, which are considered backward on the basis of human development index and also in all the VDCs (Village Development Committee) of Southern Madesh bordering with India. Income generating programs like promotion of traditional skills and innovation led enterprise; community infrastructure road, bridge, drinking water and irrigation; and capacity development programs like education, health and training will be carried out by directly targeting the ultra poor, women, Dalits, indigenous people, Janajatis and backward Madhesi communities. As many as 80 thousand households will be benefitted from the implementation of 3 thousand 500 projects in the next fiscal year." The budget has allocated a sum of Rs 1.77 billion for this program in the Poverty Alleviation fund. Furthermore, all expenditures are classified by four pillars of Poverty Reduction Strategy Paper (PRSP). And one of the pillars is targeted programs for social inclusion.

79. Is the legislature (or the appropriate legislative committee or members of the legislature) given full information for the budget year on the spending of all secret items relating to, for instance, national security and military intelligence?

a. Yes, the appropriate legislative committee or members of the legislature is provided extensive information on all spending on secret items, which includes detailed, line item descriptions of all expenditures.
b. No, the legislature is provided information on spending on secret items, but some details are excluded, or some categories are presented in an aggregated manner, or the legislature is provided no information on secret items.
c. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation:
The members of legislature are provided extensive information on all spending on secret items.

Comment:
As the parliament that was dissolved by the King in 2002 has been restored after the historic people’s movement in April 2007, the legislature is active and thus parliamentarians can exercise their rights at full capacity. Therefore, the answer jumped to "a" in OBI 2008 from "d" in OBI 2006 during when the parliament had no legislative power.

Researcher's Response to this Question was “a.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: In what form is this information presented because in Question 47 it says it does not appear in the Budget Document?

Researcher Response: I chose my answer because the parliamentarians have an access to all information related to government expenditure.

BP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “a” consistent with researcher’s response.

Researcher's Response to this Question was “d.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: In my view, more information is presented than a standard “d” response would suggest: disaggregations by the MTEF Priority Goals (P1, P2 etc) relates to poverty (pages 7-8) as well as detailed information that is presented on revenue and expenditure per development region (page 13) and later per district. Poverty in Nepal is confined to specific pockets of the country (notably the Mid and Far West Development Regions) therefore this district and region wise information would seem to shed light on poverty efforts made during the FY. Later in the Annexes spending pattern breakdowns by Ministry are also revealing to some extent e.g., Ministry of Defense or Foreign Affairs is most likely to be less pro-poor than Ministry of Local Development spending.

Researcher Response: I chose my answer because the explanation is not presented. Furthermore, there is MTEF V document has not been released yet.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “d” consistent with the researcher’s response.

According to the Interim Constitution of Nepal, the Auditor General can be removed by the parliament if two-thirds majority of the total number of parliamentarian pass a proposal of impeachment. http://www.worldstatesmen.org/Nepal_Interim_Constitution2007

Until last year the parliament was not functional and the response in the previous round of OBI was “b.” When the parliament was non-functional the king was the head of the state and he had an absolute power to sack the head of the Supreme Audit Institution.

Legislative Approval of Budgets

When answers related to "Legislative Approval of Budgets" in Nepal in OBI-2006 and OBI 2008 are compared, one can see a substantial improvement from "d" to "a." This big jump from "d" to "a" within the last two rounds (between 2006 and 2008) is due to the following major political change in Nepal.

The Nepalese parliament was dissolved by the King in 2002 which was restored only in April 2007. As there was no parliament during the time of the OBI 2006 two years ago, all responses related to the legislature were marked "d" then. Since April 2007 when the parliament has been restored after the historic people's movement, the legislature has been active and thus parliamentarians can exercise their rights at full capacity.

The Finance Minister tabled the Budget proposal for 2007/08 in the legislature on July 12th. The same day, budget proposal was made public and put on the internet (www.mof.gov.np). The members of parliament began the discussion on the budget proposal from July 13th. The Interim Legislature-Parliament passed the annual budget with a majority on August 8, 2007.

The enacted budget was exactly same as the budget proposal. Those who ask for enacted budget in the ministry of finance get the budget proposal, which now is the enacted budget.

Other Major Political Update in Nepal
Nepal does not have a presidential system and there is no direct election of the head of the state. Instead, the Prime Minister is elected by the simple majority in the parliament. It means, the PM normally has the majority of the MPs (Members of Parliament) in his favor. Because of this, the document that is presented to the parliament is, in most of the cases, approved by the house without amendment. There may however, be long discussions.

In case of budget proposal and enacted budget proposal, the parliament normally approves the finance minister's proposal without any changes. Normally the parliament, after discussions, passes the budget proposal as it is. There are very few instances where the parliament had made some amendments on the budget in the past. However, there is no such evidence within the last couple of years. Therefore, the Ministry of Finance does not release the same document twice. In such case, the Executive Budget Proposal and Enacted Budget are the same documents in Nepal.
