The Executive’s Budget Proposal

Estimates for the Budget Year and Beyond

1. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present expenditures for the budget year that are classified by administrative unit (that is, by ministry, department, or agency)?

   a. All expenditures are classified by administrative unit.
   b. Expenditures are classified by administrative unit, but some small units are not shown separately.
   c. Expenditures are classified by administrative unit, but a significant number of units are not shown separately.
   d. No expenditures classified by administrative unit are presented.
   e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

The credits opened by the finance law are allocated to a service or a set of services. They are specialized by chapter, grouping the expenditures in function of their nature or destination.” Article 9 of the Law N°2003-11 of April 1st 2003 including organic law concerning the finance laws

Comment:
In reading the finance law 2007, we can note that expenditures are classified by ministry or by Republic institution; this way, we can know the amount of expenses planned for each ministry or institution. But details are not given for small entities

Researcher’s Response to this Question was "b."

Peer Reviewer One Comment:
It is true that Niger does not have enough human and financial resources to establish the expenditures sections to a microeconomic scale, but I would rather choose response “c” because there are various details which are missing concerning the other sections reports; and often laws and decrees are not applied and respected precisely.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: I agree on “b,” in line with comments above.

Researcher Response: I chose to keep my answer "b" because the text application is another problem. What is important here is the availability of the information and its classification by administrative entity.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “b” to keep consistency with the criteria used for selecting answers across countries.
2. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present expenditures for the budget year that are classified by functional classification?

   a. All expenditures are classified by functional classification, and the categorization is compatible with international standards.
   b. All expenditures are classified by functional classification, but the categorization is not compatible with international standards.
   c. Some, but not all, expenditures are classified by function.
   d. No expenditures classified by function are presented.
   e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation:
Article 4 of the decree Nº2003-243 of September 30th determining the process of National Budget annual preparation mentions: “the state budget project must indicate the tax and non tax incomes, the received transfers and the exceptional incomes, as the expenses of the public debt, of staff, of current transfer and of investment of the institutions and ministries.”

Comment:
Expenditures are classified in accordance with the dispositions of Directive Nº4/98/CM/UEOMA including state budget nomenclature.

Researcher’s Response to this Question was "b."

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: I would propose “a” based on the explanations above.

Researcher Response: I chose to keep my answer "b" because the classification is not compatible with the international standards.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “b” to maintain consistency with the criteria used for selecting answers across countries.
3. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present expenditures for the budget year that are classified by economic classification?

   a. All expenditures are classified by economic classification, and the categorization is compatible with international standards.
   b. All expenditures are classified by economic classification, but the categorization is not compatible with international standards.
   c. Some, but not all, expenditures are classified by economic classification.
   d. No expenditures classified by economic classification are presented.
   e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment:
Appendix 2 of the finance law for budget year 2007 presents the state expenditures in function of theses categories: (1) public debt paying off and burden and expenses in attenuation of the revenues for past administrations; (2) staff expenses; (3) functioning expenses; (4) subvention and other current transfers; (5) investments executed by the State.

Peer Reviewer One Comment: Agree with answer "b": as before, the classification is not compatible with international norms.

4. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present expenditures for individual programs for the budget year?

- a. Program-level data are presented for all expenditures.
- b. Program-level data are presented for at least two-thirds of, but not all, expenditures.
- c. Program-level data are presented, but for less than two-thirds of expenditures.
- d. No program-level data are presented.
- e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

“Institutions and ministries have to identify clearly the priority programs in function of the importance order it is given to them” Article 33 of decree Nº 2003 – 243 of September 30th 2003 determining the national budget annual preparation.

Comment:
As for example, in Public Health Ministry budget 2007, expenses are presented in function of these programs: fight against epidemics; support to the basic health; support to the fight against malaria; sanitary development plan; hospitalization and medical care expenses in Niger; hospitalization and medical care expenses for sanitary evacuated; expenses linked to the gratuity of the care for women and children from 0 to 5 years old, etc.

Researcher’s Response to this Question was "a."

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “b.”

Researcher Response: I chose to keep my answer "a" because by rereading the 2007 budget, as for health ministry, expenditures of other ministries programs are detailed.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “a” to maintain consistency with the criteria used for selecting answers across countries.
5. In the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation, are estimates of the aggregate level of expenditure presented for a multi-year period (at least two years beyond the budget year)?

   a. Yes, multi-year estimates of aggregate expenditure are presented.
   b. No, multi-year estimates of aggregate expenditure are not presented.
   c. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment:
The interests payments on the debt for budget year 2007 are separated in three categories: (1) Interests and financial expenses – multilateral debt (Commission UEMOA, FAD, IDA, OIT, IMF, BOAD, etc.); (2) Interests and financial expenses – bilateral debt to Governments non affiliated to the Paris Club (FSD, Algeria, FKDEA, etc.); (3) Interests and financial expenses – domestic debt (interests BCEAO, consolidated cooperation BCEAO).

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:
13. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present information related to the composition of government debt (such as interest rates on the debt, maturity profile of the debt, currency denomination of the debt, or whether it is domestic and external debt) for the budget year?

   a. Yes, extensive information related to the composition of government debt is presented.
   b. Yes, key additional information is presented, but some details are excluded.
   c. Yes, some additional information is presented, but it lacks important details.
   d. No, additional information related to the composition of government debt is not presented.
   e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

   Comment:
   In the finance law 2007, there is a lack of important information on the debt like: the interest rate applicable to each debt category, the profile of debt due dates, the payment conditions, the devises in which the debt is libeled, etc. However, the nature (domestic or external) of the debt and the name of the creditors are presented.

   Researcher’s Response to this Question was "c."

   Peer Reviewer One Comment:
   The response “c” is correct because even if in the finance law 2008 that we can download on www.izf.net/affiche_oscar.php, the debts are not detailed, and it is the same thing as the other years.

   Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “d” given the very limited data available on debt in the budget document.

   Researcher Response: chose to keep my answer "c" because information is given, in particular on the amounts, the nature and the creditor. We cannot say there is no information at all. However, they deserve to be detailed.

   IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “c” on the basis of both peer reviewers’ and researcher’s comments.

14. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present the macroeconomic forecast upon which the budget projections are based?

   a. Yes, an extensive discussion of the macroeconomic forecast is presented, and key assumptions (such as inflation, real GDP growth, unemployment rate, and interest rates) are stated explicitly.
   b. Yes, the macroeconomic forecast is discussed and most of the key assumptions are stated explicitly, but some details are excluded.
   c. Yes, there is some discussion of the macroeconomic forecast (and/or the presentation of key assumptions), but it lacks important details.
   d. No, information related to the macroeconomic forecast is not presented.
   e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

   Citation:
Article 6 of decree № 2003-243 of September 30th 2003 determining the process for the preparation of the annual National Budget mentions that “the elaboration of the national budget is based on a macroeconomic and budgetary framework elaborated by the Ministry of Finance and Economics. This framework serves as foundation to the budgetary expenses and incomes predictions.”

Article 7 of the same decree mentions that “the macroeconomic and budgetary framework must identify three growth scenarios and their implications on the sectoral and global budget packages for the year for which the budget is being prepared, as well as for the two following ones.”

Article 10 of the same decree mentions that: “the macroeconomic and budgetary framework is communicated annually by the Finance and Economics Ministry to the institutions and ministries by a note named “macroeconomic and budgetary framework note.” This note must be transmitted to the institutions and ministries on April 15th at the latest.

Comment:
Information of the international and regional contexts is given. We can find in the expose of the Finance Law 2007 grounds a presentation of international – American and European among others – regional (African) and national contexts and some impacts on the national budget. For example, an incidence as the hydrocarbons’ prices augmentation on the national economy is presented.

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: The government budgetary proposal, which is published in the Official Journal together with the approved budget presents the macroeconomic forecast in reasonable details, with forecasts of growth of the main components of GDP.

15. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation show the impact of different macroeconomic assumptions (i.e., sensitivity analysis) on the budget (including expenditures, revenues, and debt)?

a. Yes, extensive information on the impact of macroeconomic assumptions on the budget is presented, including both a narrative discussion and quantitative estimates.
b. Yes, information is presented, highlighting the impact of the major macroeconomic assumptions, but some details are excluded.
c. Yes, some information is presented, but it lacks important details.
d. No, information on the impact of different macroeconomic assumptions on the budget is not presented.
e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment:
In the finance law 2007, we can find in the part “General context” a presentation in 2005 and 2006 of the international, regional and national economic environment and its impacts on the national budget, in particular the inflation rates in Europe, in the USA, in Africa; the impact of the oil costs, etc. But there is a lack of details in this information.
Researcher’s Response to this Question was "b."

Peer Reviewer One Comment:
I would prefer to say response “c” because there is an important lack of information even in the 2007 law that the author mentions, even if we talk about international environment, it is only a tiny part, we cannot find all the useful and accurate information.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “d.” No different macroeconomic assumptions are discussed, nor their impact on the budget assessed. It should be noted however that for a country such as Niger a central macroeconomic scenario is adequate. The budget is affected by the negotiated export price uranium, which is known at the time of the budget discussion. If additional exceptional revenues are forthcoming, as it occurred in early 2008 when exceptional uranium dividends were paid to the government, and the sale of a telecom license brought in large non tax revenue, the government presented in mid-year to the legislature a supplementary budget to allocate these resources. This was the correct procedure under the circumstances. The budget always includes a budgetary reserve to face unforeseen emergencies, which is also appropriate.

Researcher Response: I choose to change my answer to "c" because I agree with the two commentaries that the causality bonds between context elements and the budget are not explained enough

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “c” to maintain consistency with the criteria used for selecting answers across countries.
16. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present information for at least the budget year that shows how policy proposals in the budget, as distinct from existing policies, affect expenditures?

a. Yes, extensive information on the impact of policy proposals on expenditures is presented, including both a narrative discussion and quantitative estimates.
b. Yes, information is presented, highlighting the impact of key policy proposals on expenditures, but some details are excluded.
c. Yes, some information is presented, but it lacks important details.
d. No, information on the impact of policy proposals on expenditures is not presented.
e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment:
In the finance law 2007, the political proposals concerning the expenditures aim essentially to “pursue the control of the expenditures and the fight against corruption, watching over the orientation of the public expenditure in priority sectors of the Poverty Reduction Strategy (PRS).

Researcher’s Response to this Question was "c."

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “b.” The impact of new policy proposals is generally presented in some details in the budget document

Researcher Response: I chose to keep my answer "c" because a rereading of the Finance law 2007 has not enabled me to see the details mentioned in commentary 2

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “c” to maintain consistency with the criteria used for selecting answers across countries.
17. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present information for at least the budget year that shows how policy proposals in the budget, as distinct from existing policies, affect revenues?

a. Yes, extensive information on the impact of policy proposals on revenues is presented, including both a narrative discussion and quantitative estimates.

b. Yes, information is presented, highlighting the impact of key policy proposals on revenues, but some details are excluded.

c. Yes, some information is presented, but it lacks important details.

d. No, information on the impact of policy proposals on revenues is not presented.

e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

In the section on general orientations of budget 2007, the first priority action is about “the augmentation of domestic recourses through the reinforcement of recovering structures capacities, the enlargement of the tax base, the reduction of the exonerations area, the tightening of controls, all this in a context of application of the pattern of exchange liberalization of the CEDEAO and the suppression of compensatory incomes of UEMOA (…) More specifically, in order to reach the domestic incomes objectives for 2007, some new tax measures are proposed in the framework of the recourses mobilization strategy adopted by the Finance and Economics Ministry, together with the development partners

Comment:
The finance law 2007 planned some new tax measures to reach the incomes objectives through particularly: the establishment of a tax on air transport boarding, the augmentation of vignettes quota lots, the raising of bill-stamps, the raising of the excises fee. Additionally, other corrective measures have been planned on the games winnings and lotteries.

In 2007 budget, there is no data on the expenditures for 2005 and previous years. The budget document presents the budget forecast for the previous year of priority sectors expenditures (about 50% of total outlays), and their execution in the first 6 month of the year. However, we cannot find individual detailed information on tax receipts.

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “d.” The budget documents present the outcome for revenue to end-June of the current year, and the main groups of revenue budgeted in the previous budget law. But this is only the data for half year execution. But this is only the data for half year execution.

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “d” as non-tax data for previous year are not presented in details in the budget document (only the first half year execution is presented). Peer Reviewer One Comment:
Yes, the response is “d,” because in the finance law 2007 and at the level of fiscal measures, quasi-fiscal activities are not mentioned.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “e.” The government does not engage in quasi fiscal activities, so the budget document cannot report on them.

47. What percentage of expenditure in the budget year is dedicated to spending on secret items relating to, for instance, national security and military intelligence?

   a. One percent or less of expenditure is dedicated to secret items.
   b. Three percent or less, but more than one percent, of expenditure is dedicated to secret items.
   c. Eight percent or less, but more than three percent, of expenditure is dedicated to secret items.
   d. More than eight percent of expenditure is dedicated to secret items, or the percentage is not available to the public.
   e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation:

Comment:
It is difficult to calculate the percentage of the secret expenditures in the budget 2007, insomuch as these expenditures are hardly identifiable. On an illustrative basis, the budget provides information on the expenditures of the defense and security ministries. But in these budgets, we cannot know what is secret or not. In addition, the Prime Minister and Republic President’s personal staff has the intervention funds. Do we classify these funds in this section?

Researcher’s Response to this Question was "d."

Peer Reviewer One Comment:
I would have chosen response “e” because all the expenditures concerning the security intelligence are not released, so giving a percentage would be absurd.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “e.” As per answer above the Presidency has some interventions funds, plus the budget includes a budgetary reserve for emergency. Presumably this would be used for national security emergencies. In fact, in 2007 a special Fonds d’ Intervention Prioritaire was approved in mid year in a supplementary budget, to allocate new mining concession revenues to priority expenditures, including security, and ultimately it was all affected to security.

Researcher Response: I chose to change my answer "e" because the information provided does not allow calculating any percentage of the expenditures concerning the security intelligence.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “d” to maintain consistency with the criteria used for selecting answers across countries.

The finance law project for 2007 shows the Government determination in beginning to implement a poverty fight strategy, supported by an economic and financial policy based on the following elements:
- The growth of domestic resources through the strengthening of the capacity of revenue collection structures,, the increase of the tax base, the reduction of exemption areas, the tightening of controls, all this within the context of application of the liberalization plan for the CEDEAO exchanges, and the elimination of the compensatory revenues from the UEMOA.
- The intensification of public finance reforms and of adjustment efforts in order to consolidate the stability of the macroeconomic framework.
- The consolidation of the progresses made on orthodoxy and budgetary discipline.
- The continuation of the domestic debt balancing efforts.

At the social level, the focus will be on the improvement of the life standards and of the wellbeing of the population in general and of the vulnerable classes (women and children) in particular, through the access to key social services, particularly education and health, as well as the realization of investments programs and projects bringing growth and improvement in the citizens’ incomes – actions contained in the Poverty Reduction Strategy (PRS). In this context, the finance law project 2007 establishes the coherency between the budgetary previsions and the general orientations of the PRS. Generally, the credits allocated to the sectors participating in the fight against poverty present a pertinent development. Table 4 on the development by source of financing of the priority sectors between 2006 and 2007 show this evolution. The priority sectors of the PRS are: education (primary, secondary and higher education), agricultural development, livestock, land settlement, equipment, hydraulic and environment, and public health.”

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:
65. Are citizens able in practice to obtain non-financial information related to expenditures (for example, number of beneficiaries, number of persons employed by the program, etc.) for individual programs in a format that is more highly disaggregated than that which appears in the executive’s budget proposal if they request it from a ministry or agency?

a. In practice, highly disaggregated non-financial information is available to the public for all programs except those considered related to national security or military intelligence.

b. In practice, highly disaggregated non-financial information is available to the public for programs representing at least two-thirds of, but not all, expenditures.

c. In practice, highly disaggregated non-financial information is available to the public for programs representing less than two-thirds of expenditures.

d. In practice, no highly disaggregated non-financial expenditure information is available.

e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment:
The access to the information depends on the willingness of the public official. But on the non financial questions, some public agents give this information promptly. However, this practice is not generalized.

Researcher’s Response to this Question was "c."

Peer Reviewer One Comment:
A more appropriate answer would be "d" because the agent is afraid we find out he provided the sensitive information.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:

Researcher Response: I chose to keep my answer "c."
Journalists or citizens generally protect their information source; which comforts the public functionaries.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “d.”
It seems that information is available only to some individuals and this is at discretion of the public official who is about to disclose the information. For this reason we consider this an arbitrary access to information and although some information is available to SOME individuals, this does not satisfy the requirement of “public availability” as described in the Guide to the Open Budget Questionnaire.

b. The executive adheres to most of the key dates in its timetable.
c. The executive has difficulty adhering to most of the dates in its timetable.
d. The executive does not adhere to the dates in its timetable, or it does not release to the public its timetable.

Comment:
Most of the dates are respected, except the date of the budget publication in the Official Journal. The law planned that this publication should be done in December, just after the budget adoption in November by the legislature. Generally, we have to wail until January or February of the following year to see the budget published in the Official Journal, that consists in a delay of one to two months.

   b. Yes, hearings are held in which testimony is heard from the executive branch and some constituencies.
   c. Yes, hearings are held in which testimony from the executive branch is heard, but no testimony from the public is heard.

   Comment: The public is not consulted on the macroeconomic assumptions of the budget. The finance commission of the Parliament or the Parliament’s plenary questions only the finance ministry and its collaborators for clarification questions. Comment:
In a general manner, the adoption of the budget is an activity reserved exclusively to the Government and the Parliament. However, the public can attend the plenary parliamentary debates on the budget but cannot participate and present its point of view. Exceptionally, the Finance Commission of the Parliament asks for listening to certain social groups as unions and associations on very specific questions.

   c. Yes, the committees release reports, but they are not very informative.

Comment:
Yes the parliamentary finance commission which is questioned about the budget releases a report of all the hearings and examinations of the budget. Additionally, every session of the National Assembly is subject of “a brief account” communicated to the public through public and private medias, and the Assembly’s radio. The only problem of this radio is that it has a covering range of 25 km; which does not even cover one tenth of the capital.

   c. Yes, the legislature has authority in law to amend the budget, but its authority is very limited.

Article 91 of the Constitution of August 9th 1999: “The deputies and the Government have the authority of amendment.”

Comment:
A legislator or a group of legislators have the possibility to submit an amendment to the finance law project. This amendment must be submitted in the Parliament’s office by a date fixed by the Presidents’ Conference. The law specifies the amendment type the parliamentarians can bring to the budget proposal. Article 100 of the Parliament’s internal regulations mentions that “only dispositions linked directly to the revenues or expenditures, or tending to ensure the control over public expenditure, can be introduced to the budget deliberations or to the deliberations on provisional or additional credits. No resolution proposal and no questioning can be added, no additional article can be presented, if they have as a consequence either a diminution of the revenues, or an increase in expenditures (unless they are accompanied by an equivalent proposal to increase revenues or savings).” This disposition was inspired by article 93 of the Constitution.

81. What is the most detail provided in the appropriation (expenditure budget) approved by the legislature?

a. The approved budget includes program-level detail.
b. The approved budget includes departmental totals and some additional details (for instance, sub-department totals or major programs).
c. The approved budget includes only departmental totals.
d. The approved budget includes less information than departmental totals.
e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation:

Comment:
The budget approved by the Parliament provides information on the amounts allocated to the ministries and institutions. Within the expenditure of each ministry, the amounts by head office or region are provided. For example, in the foreign affairs ministry, they are presented the amounts of expenditures allocated to each central head office and to each diplomatic representation (embassy) of Niger abroad.

Researcher’s Response to this Question was "a."

Peer Reviewer One Comment:
I agree with response "a" but in certain cases, information is missing.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “b.” Program level details are somewhat limited, available for major programs.

Researcher Response: I chose my answer "a" because finance law 2007 provides detailed information for each ministry.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “b” to maintain consistency with the criteria used for selecting answers across countries. The example given by the researcher suggests “b” as the most appropriate answer: the totals by region and/or administrative unit do not constitute a program level presentation of the data.

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A rating of “e” would be more appropriate. Please note that a mid-year review of the budget discussing changes in economic outlook would not make any sense in a country such as Niger. It is an agricultural country, with the rains falling in the third quarter, and the agricultural production coming in the second part of the year. By end June, nothing has changed in the economic outlook from the beginning of the year. In addition, expenditures are slow in execution, and first half expenditures pattern are not significant. When, as in 2008, there have been significant changes in the budgetary situation after the budget was enacted, because of exceptional mining and telecom concession revenues, the government has submitted to parliament a supplementary budget, which is the proper way to handle the revised outlook. Mid year budgetary statements would be a drain on limited administrative capacity, and therefore unadvisable.

In 2006 the most credible reported case of irregularities in obtaining goods and services was that of the Primary Education Ministry. It consists in irregularities recorded by an independent audit on the procurement of school material and stationary. The seriousness of the irregularities led the Parliament to charge, in front of the Supreme Court of Justice, the two ministers presumably implied in the affair. In May 2007 the Parliament voted the Government out of office, through an impeachment motion, because of the presumed implication of the Prime Minister in the affair, which is still pending in court. Several important functionaries of this Ministry have been imprisoned too.

Generally, supplemental budget are approved before the funds are spent. Depending on the year, the executive submits to the legislature’s approval one or two budgetary supplements. For example, we can mention different years:
- For budget year 2000, there has been one rectification of the initial finance law in June 2000;
- For budget year 2001, there has been one rectification of the initial finance law in July 2001;
- For budget year 2002, there has been one rectification of the initial finance law in May 2002;
- For budget year 2003, there has been one rectification of the initial finance law in 2003;
- For budget year 2004, there has been no rectification of the initial finance law;
- For budget year 2005, there have been two rectifications of the initial finance law in January 2005 and May 2005;
- For budget year 2006, there has been no rectification of the initial finance law;
- For budget year 2007, there has been one rectification of the initial finance law in May 2007;

104. What level of detail is the focus of the explanation of the differences between the enacted levels and the actual outcome for expenditures presented in the year-end report?

a. The explanation of the differences between the enacted expenditure levels and the actual outcome focuses on the program level.
b. The explanation focuses on departmental totals (or functional totals) or some lower level of detail (but not the program level in all cases).
c. The explanation focuses on a higher level of aggregation than departmental totals (or functional totals).
d. No explanation of the differences is provided, or such a report is not released.
e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

The regulations law 2004 shows that the explanation of the differences is focused on functional amounts. So country A presents the revenues of the general budget 2004 whereas country B presents the expenditures of general budget 2004. Inside country B, we can find the expenditures details by budget item and internally by department
