Comment:
Expenditures are classified by administrative unit, as shown in the Budget Proposal for 2007, published on the internet

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “For example, the budget for Intelligence Services is not divided by the administrative units (Services) but presented as a single unit.

Researcher Response: The question asks about the classification of expenditures by administrative unit (i.e., by ministry, department, or agency) – the Peer Reviewer comment refers to subdivisions of an administrative unit (specific Services in the administrative unit of Intelligence Services)
2. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present expenditures for the budget year that are classified by functional classification?

a. All expenditures are classified by functional classification, and the categorization is compatible with international standards.
b. All expenditures are classified by functional classification, but the categorization is not compatible with international standards.
c. Some, but not all, expenditures are classified by function.
d. No expenditures classified by function are presented.

Comment:

Researcher’s Response to this question was “a.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “b”
The narrative discussion on intergovernmental transfers, presented in the Report on the macroeconomic context for 2007 and the forecast for 2008-2010, is very brief.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:

Researcher Response: I chose my answer “a” because the Peer reviewer’s comment is not correct; “b” answer would suggest that some details on intergovernmental transfers are not presented, which is not the case; Furthermore, the cited documents presents even detailed narrative discussions on the intergovernmental transfers (e.g. page 69-70, page 73-78 in the Report of macroeconomic context….; Also see annexes 4-7 to the budget document, that presents all types of transfers from central government to local governments

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “a” to maintain the consistency of the assumptions used in selecting answers across the countries.

Comment:

Researcher’s Response to this question was “c.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “b.”
My review of the Budget Proposal and the Annexes indicates that non-financial data are presented for programs representing RON 48723.63 million expenditures, approximate 75 percent from all expenditures (RON 64759.9 million).

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:

Researcher Response: I chose my answer “c” because in the cited documents the non-financial data (such as number of beneficiaries, etc.) is presented for less than two thirds of expenditure; In fact, only a few programs presents the number of beneficiaries, so I consider Peer reviewer’s comment and the figures provided incorrect

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “c” to maintain the consistency of the assumptions used in selecting answers across the countries.
51. Are the non-financial data presented useful for assessing how an expenditure program is performing?

a. The non-financial data are very useful for assessing program performance.
b. The non-financial data are mostly useful for assessing program performance.
c. The non-financial data are somewhat useful for assessing program performance.
d. No non-financial data are provided or they are not useful for assessing program performance.

Comment:

Researcher’s Response to this question was “c.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “b”
Non-financial data are presented as estimated results and thus are mostly useful for assessing programs performance.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:

Researcher Response: I chose my answer “c” because the non-financial data provided (and only for a very limited number of programs) is only referring to the number of beneficiaries – nothing is mentioned about the implementation timeframe, monitoring, etc., so is very difficult to make a sound assessment of the performance of the program with this very basic information; I disagree with Peer Reviewer comment that the information is “mostly useful” to assess the programs’ performance

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “b” to maintain the consistency of the assumptions used in selecting answers across the countries.
52. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation contain performance indicators for expenditure programs?

   a. Performance indicators are presented for all programs.
   b. Performance indicators are presented for programs representing at least two-thirds of, but not all, expenditures.
   c. Performance indicators are presented for programs representing less than two-thirds of expenditures.
   d. No performance indicators are presented.

Comment:
The proposed budgets of administrative units (Ministries and other institutions) presented as Annexes to Budget Proposal include performance indicators for less than two-thirds of expenditures. For these programs the indicators are well designed and contain sufficient information; but as a whole, for the entire budget, these indicators are limited.
It is worth mentioning that all information on performance indicators is not consolidated in the Budget Proposal or any of the supporting documents, a conclusion that can be reached by reviewing all these documents.

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:
53. Are the performance indicators sufficiently well designed, such that one can assess whether there has been progress toward meeting policy goals?

- a. All performance indicators are well designed.

Some of this information is available to the public on the websites of line ministries, or available upon request. Since this is not valid for all programs, the most appropriated answer to this question is "b."

Researcher’s Response to this Question was “b.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “a”

Comment:
According to the Romanian law (Law on Public Finances 500/2002 and its subsequent amendments, Law 314/2003) the executive is NOT required to release a pre-budget statement. Only budget supporting documents are legally required.

Comment:
The legislative receives the proposed budget the latest on October 15, and the budget is enacted before the beginning of the budget year.

Peer Reviewer One Comment: In the past five years the legislative received the budget between October 12 and October 15 which means less than three months before the start of the budget year.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: The budget is sent to the Parliament around 15th of October each year.
75. Does a legislative committee (or committees) hold public hearings on the macroeconomic and fiscal framework presented in the budget in which testimony from the executive branch and the public is heard?

a. Yes, public hearings are held on the macroeconomic and fiscal framework in which testimony is heard from the executive branch and a wide range of constituencies.
b. Yes, hearings are held in which testimony is heard from the executive branch and some constituencies.
c. Yes, hearings are held in which testimony from the executive branch is heard, but no testimony from the public is heard.
d. No, public hearings are not held on the macroeconomic and fiscal framework in which testimony from the executive branch and the public is heard.
e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment:
Both chambers of the Parliament hold budget hearings open to the public, according to the Law on free access to information, 544/2001. However, a culture of the public at large to participate and express opinions in such hearings does not yet exist in Romania, so the most appropriate answer to this question is "c."

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: No comment. However, the public can write observations to the Parliament - observations which are usually discussed within relevant committees.
76. Do legislative committees hold public hearings on the individual budgets of central government administrative units (that is, ministries, departments, and agencies) in which testimony from the executive branch is heard?

   a. Yes, extensive public hearings are held on the budgets of administrative units in which testimony from the executive branch is heard.
   b. Yes, hearings are held, covering key administrative units, in which testimony from the executive branch is heard.
   c. Yes, a limited number of hearings are held in which testimony from the executive branch is heard.
   d. No, public hearings are not held on the budgets of administrative units in which testimony from the executive branch is heard.

Comment:
The executive informs the legislative before shifting funds, giving the legislative an opportunity to block or modify the proposed adjustment. These proposals (Government Emergency Ordinances) are publicized on the legislative website. For example, the executive asked the legislative's approval for shifting more funds for wages in education, and the Government Emergency Ordinance for this shift of funds was approved by the legislative through Law 189/2006.

Researcher’s Response this comment was “b.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “c.” The Government enacts Government Emergency Ordinances which come to legal force 3 days after being published and are afterwards sent to the Parliament. GEOs are enforced even before the Parliament’s vote. Usually the Parliament approves the GEOs. But if the Parliament rejects a GEO, the Government comes with another one on the same subject, seeking final approval from the Parliament.

Researcher Response: PR2 comment suggest the same thing mentioned by the researcher: notification is given prior to funds shifting; The PR2 comment though doesn’t bring supplementary information related to the subject of the question (the relevant information in this case is that the Executive gives prior notification to the Parliament before shifting the funds, as explained in the researcher’s comment) but is focused more on the legal procedures the executive is using for notification I retain my answer “b.”

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “b” to maintain consistency with the guidance provided to researchers for correctly completing the questionnaire in the Guide to the Open Budget Questionnaire.

98. When does the legislature typically approve supplemental budgets?

   a. Supplemental budgets are approved before the funds are expended, or the executive rarely proposes a supplemental budget (please specify).

   c. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment:
Supplemental budgets are approved prior to being disbursed, as required by the Law on Public Finances, 500/2003. These proposals are publicized on legislative website.

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: Every year the Government proposes two-three “rectifications” of the budget, usually by allocating more funds to various sectors. Not very often, the Government proposes negative rectifications – which mean some ministries see their budgets reduced. These changes are done through Emergency Ordinances which should be approved by the Parliament. If there is just a shifting of funds between ministries, Government Decisions (GD) are enough. The GD are not sent to the Parliament, but checked for validity by the Legislative Council.

Researcher Response: PR2 comment can be added to researcher comment if so decided; Anyhow, PR2 comment is similar with the researcher’s comment (the method to allocate supplementary budget is provided in the law 500/2003, and it functions as described by PR2).
99. In most years, how large are supplemental budget requests relative to the size of the original budget?

   a. Supplemental budgets are generally equal to 2 percent or less of the original budget.

   c. Supplemental budget are generally equal to more than 5 percent, but less than 10 percent, of the original budget.
