Section Two: The Executive's Budget Proposal

Notes on abbreviations:

BY = budget year (year for which the budget proposals are being made)

BY+1 = one year beyond the budget year

BY-1 = one year before the budget year

Note 1: The Open Budget Survey research process was carried out over a 12-month period and the final version of the Open Budget Questionnaires reflect decisions made after multiple rounds of discussions between Survey researchers, peer reviewers, and the International Budget Partnership (IBP) (in several countries these decisions also considered comments received from governments). When peer reviewers or governments agreed with the answers provided by researchers, they often provided no comment. Thus for many questions, the section in the questionnaire that should contain peer reviewer comments is left blank. However, if the government did not provide any comments to a question (because it did not dispute the answer), the section within the questionnaire that is meant to reflect government comments specifies the answer that the government agreed with (by default).

Since the IBP continued its discussions with the researchers even after receiving peer reviewer and government comments, for some questions these discussions resulted in a mutual decision to change the answers, even if the peer reviewers and governments agreed with the original answer provided by the researcher. Such changes may have happened as a result of:

1. A more consistent application of the Survey methodology;
2. New information identified by the researcher or by IBP that had a bearing on the answer for a particular question; or
3. Decisions made to ensure cross-country comparability of answers.

For more information on these changes for any question please write to info@internationalbudget.org.

The MTEF is a financial programming exercise and provides guidelines/envelope for expenditure. Peer Reviewer Two Comment: Researcher Response: We suggest the answer should remain as we indicated in the questionnaire because the Medium Term Budget Statement -MTBS (2009-10 to 2011-12) is a supporting budget document and shows the aggregate level of expenditures presented of multi-year period (BY+2). This document is also publicly available. IBP Comment: IBP editors chose response “a” as per the researcher’s citation and comment.	a

6. In the executive's budget or any supporting budget documentation, is more detail than just the aggregate level presented for expenditure estimates that cover a multi-year period (for at least two years beyond the budget year)?
- Yes, multi-year expenditure estimates are presented for all individual programs, and for one or more expenditure classification (such as functional, economic, or administrative).
 - Yes, multi-year estimates are presented for one or more expenditure classification (such as functional, economic, or administrative), but only for some individual programs.
 - Yes, multi-year estimates are presented, but only for a portion of one or more of the expenditure classifications (such as some functions, or some administrative units) and/or for only some individual programs.
 - No, multi-year estimates are presented for aggregate expenditure only, or they are not presented at all.
 - Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment:

Researcher Response to this Question was "c"

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be "d." I was unable to get a copy of the MTB statement but the citation given above does not support the choice of "c." The saving and investment numbers on P. 38 of the Budget in Brief are taken directly from the MT Economic Framework which guides the MTBF.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:

Researcher Response: I suggest the answer should remain as I indicated in the questionnaire because the Medium Term Budget Statement -MTBS (2009-10 to 2011-12) is a supporting budget document and shows the aggregate level of expenditures presented by a multi-year period (BY+2). This document is also publicly available.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose response "c" as per the researcher's citation and comment.

13. Does the executive's budget or any supporting budget documentation present information related to the composition of government debt (such as interest rates on the debt, maturity profile of the debt, currency denomination of the debt, or whether it is domestic and external debt) for the budget year?

- a. Yes, extensive information related to the composition of government debt is presented.
- b. Yes, key additional information is presented, but some details are excluded.
- c. Yes, some additional information is presented, but it lacks important details.
- d. No, additional information related to the composition of government debt is not presented.
- e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation:

Budget in Brief, page 15 presents a profile of external resources, on page 19, table 16 is presents information for interest on foreign and domestic debts and on page 12 table 10 presents information on profits from internal receipts.

Comment:

Researcher Response to this Question was "a"

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be "b." Although budget documents provide a summary of the resources available and interest payment requirements, the focus is on the flow rather than stock of debt. The Economic Survey of Pakistan presents data on the composition of debt in terms of long-term, short-term and unfunded debt. The currency denomination of external debt is not made public. The functional classification for external debt is non-standard.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be "b." No budget documents provide extensive information such as interest rates on the debt and maturity profile of the outstanding debt.

Researcher Response: I suggest the answer should be changed as suggested by Peer Reviewer Two.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose response "b" as per Peer Reviewer One's comment.

14. Does the executive's budget or any supporting budget documentation present the macroeconomic forecast upon which the budget projections are based?
- Yes, an extensive discussion of the macroeconomic forecast is presented, and key assumptions (such as inflation, real GDP growth, unemployment rate, and interest rates) are stated explicitly.
 - Yes, the macroeconomic forecast is discussed and most of the key assumptions are stated explicitly, but some details are excluded.
 - Yes, there is some discussion of the macroeconomic forecast (and/or the presentation of key assumptions), but it lacks important details.
 - No, information related to the macroeconomic forecast is not presented.
 - Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation:

The Budget Speech 2009-10, pages 8-9 presents analysis of the macro economic forecast upon which the budget projections are based. The Budget in Brief, Page 38 provides indicators but these are not presented in detail.

Comment:

Researcher Response to this Question was "b"

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be "c." Although some macroeconomic forecasts are presented in the Budget Speech and in the Budget in Brief, it is unclear how they are derived. Further, the link between the macroeconomic forecasts and the budget is missing. The Economic Survey of Pakistan, which is the flagship economic publication of the budget process, does not provide the macroeconomic framework and nor is it discussed as part of the budget.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be "c." The documents cited above, along with Annual Plan 2009-10, provide some information on the macroeconomic forecasts, but they lack important details.

Researcher Response: We suggest the answer should be changed as suggested by Peer Reviewer Two because they lack important details on percentages.

IBP Comment: Based on a review of comments, IBP chose answer "c."

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be "d." The Explanatory Memorandum of Federal Receipts 2009-10 only provides information regarding the dividend income from various government investments (p. 30-31) and enterprises (p. 20). There is no information about the percentage of equity held by the government or any indication of the valuation of those holdings. Many of companies are listed on the stock market so it should easy to calculate their valuation based on shares held.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:

Researcher Response: We chose our answer because question asks about the financial assets held by the government which are presented in the explanatory memorandum on federal receipts. Since this information lacks important details, the answer should remain "c."

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose response "c" because as per the researcher's citation limited information about financial assets is presented.

The Budget Speech also provides performance indicators for expenditures but these include very limited information. The Annual Plan 2009-10 presents sector-wise information.

Comment:

Researcher Response to this Question was "b"

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be "c." A limited number of performance indicators are included in the Annual Plan which only covers development budgets. Section 9.4 of the Budget Brief suggests that from next year by using the 'output based budgeting' methodology, it will be possible to produce budgets on Outcomes and Outputs together with their indicators and targets.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:

Researcher Response: We suggest the answer should be changed as suggested by Peer Reviewer One because it covers the development budget program only.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose response "c" as per Peer Reviewer One's citation.

Comment:

Researcher Response to this Question was "c"

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be "d." Although PC forms present performance indicators for development these documents are not available in the public domain. The Federal Budget in Brief does not provide information about performance indicators. Although, the Budget Speech and the Annual Plan 2009-10 both provide limited performance indicators for expenditures, they are insufficient to judge the efficiency of expenditures.

Researcher Response: I suggest that the answer should remain as I indicated in the questionnaire because the question refers to the design of performance indicators and their efficacy in defining policy goals rather than availability in the public domain.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose response "d" because even though the question asks about the design of performance indicators, the assumption is that this data should be publicly available in order for the public to assess the progress towards meeting policy goals.

Comment:

The researcher response to this question was "b"

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be "c." Although the law was passed in 2002 it is ineffective in Pakistan and modalities for implementation of the law are still unclear. Anecdotal evidence suggests that it is "frequently or always impossible" in practice to access information. The citizens are unaware of their rights and the administration is unaware of its responsibilities under the law.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:

Researcher Response: We suggest the answer should remain as we indicated in the questionnaire because this question refers only to the availability of the law to access information.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose response "c" as per Peer Reviewer One's comment.

67. Does the executive release to the public its timetable for preparation of the executive's budget proposal (that is, a document setting deadlines for submissions from other government entities, such as line ministries or subnational government, to the ministry of finance or what ever central government agency is in charge of coordinating the budget's formulation)?

- a. Yes, a detailed timetable is released to the public.
- b. Yes, a timetable is released, but some details are excluded.
- c. Yes, a timetable is released, but it lacks important details.
- d. No, a timetable is not issued to the public.
- e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation:

No such timetable is released to the public. However, the Ministry of Finance issues this timetable to public representatives and related line departments.

Comment:

Researcher Response to this Question was "d"

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be "a." The Budget Call Circular is issued to line ministries and spending bodies every year in November which contains the timetable for the budget. For example, the budget circular for 2008-09 included a schedule on p.5 Annex II. The budget circular is easily accessible to the public and is covered in the press: e.g.

http://www.dailytimes.com.pk/default.asp?page=2009\12\05\story_5-12-2009_pg5_1

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:

Researcher Response: We suggest that the answer should remain as we indicated in the questionnaire because the mentioned link of dailytimes and the circular was published on December 05, 2009 and it is for the budget year 2010-2011 instead of 2009-10.

IBP Comment: IBP editors agree with the researcher. As per the methodology no document issued after the cut-off date of September 15, 2009 can be used to respond to this Survey.

- a. The SAI has full discretion to decide which audits it wishes to undertake.
- b. The SAI has significant discretion, but faces some limitations.
- c. The SAI has some discretion, but faces considerable limitations.
- d. The SAI has no discretion to decide which audits it wishes to undertake.
- e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation:

The Constitution provides the Auditor General of Pakistan with discretion to undertake any audit it wish to.(Article 169 A,B)

Comment:

Researcher Response to this Question was "a"

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be "b." The SAI has significant discretion, but it faces some limitations to audit military expenditures.

Researcher Response: We chose our answer because the military has its own audit system. However the SAI has significant discretion to undertake any audit it wish to except for the military.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose response "b" since the SAI does face limitations to audit Military expenditures.
